

Amari Katherine Ann Marshall
Also known as AmariMonster Bio

Amari Katherine Ann Marshall, also known as AmariMonster, is a globally renowned Choreographer, Dancer, and Director. Currently, she serves as Beyoncé's Co-Dance Captain, contributing choreographer, and dancer for the Renaissance World Tour. She co-founded The Black Escape Experience, a platform fostering dance shows and networks across Latin America. Amari has collaborated with iconic artists including Beyoncé, Rihanna, and Lady Gaga, choreographing stage performances for Pharrell and music videos for artists like J Balvin and Janet Jackson. Notable appearances include Missy Elliott's Vanguard Award Performance, Beyoncé's Homecoming Documentary, and Rihanna's Super Bowl Halftime Show. As a trailblazer, Amari was the first plus-size model/dancer to walk the runway for Adidas in Milan Fashion Week. She continues to inspire through sold-out Hip Hop master classes worldwide and as a Nike Muse, representing the Nike Women Icon Clash Team. With roots in African, Krump, Dancehall, and Hip Hop, she champions women, her generation, and her culture as part of the all-female empowerment collective, THE COUNCIL. She embodies Black Girl Magic—powerful, impactful, and unstoppable.
